Franke Active Kitchen

The Multitasker's Dream Come True

Franke's Active Kitchen is the fully personalized, interrelated system of sinks, faucets, range hoods, water filtration, waste disposers, rail systems and accessories that turn the kitchen from a collection of appliances to a successful ecosystem in which all the functions complement and support each other.

Full integration of kitchen components and accessories has never been easier. Our rail system is at the heart of it, cutting steps, saving time, increasing usable work space and streamlining all the processes from preparation through clean up.

KITCHEN
SYSTEMS

Research has found that 75% of everything that happens in the kitchen centers around the sink.

If added counter space were the whole answer, then as America's kitchens got bigger they'd automatically become more efficient. But they don't. So Franke, the world's largest source of kitchen sinks, set out to find a way to cut steps, save time, streamline processes from preparation through clean up and generally make sure that kitchens get smarter without needing to get bigger. This innovation is called the Franke Rail System, wall mounted stainless steel rails that carry perfectly fitted accessories with a direct, practical relationship to food preparation and clean up tasks.

Variations on the Rail System are Endless

Franke has taken the concept beyond space saving and related it directly to the practical kitchen processes themselves. It's a system for people who actually cook and clean up, designed by experts who know all the steps that it takes and how to connect them efficiently and attractively.

With the Franke Rail System, cooks can put more than a dozen handle-mounted accessories at their fingertips to create a second, fully functional work level without ever exhausting counter space.

As an added bonus, the sleekly sophisticated rails are as attractive when empty as they are efficient when fully loaded. As practical as they are efficient, the Franke rail components can be linked together, effortlessly removed for cleaning and withstand up to 44 pounds in weight.
